The Chair explained these are sitting members that are up for reappointment. Their terms have expired.

VOTE: Motion CARRIED 4-2 (AGAINST: Scinto and Foreman)

- It was explained under the charter when a term ends people continue to sit until their replacement is appointed and takes the oath of office. There were some extensions. It's within the purview of the first selectman to make a recommendation, and then it's up to the town council whether to appoint. The first selectman has recommended, in this case, that Dawn Cantafio replace Ray Baldwin on the commission. His term expired last month, as some of the other members had terms that expired earlier, Mr. Trefz and Mr. Magliocco. They are stepping down.
- These resolutions fill the positions for the balance of those terms. Chapter eight, section three provides that the incumbent continues to sit until replaced.
- It was confirmed that one term did expire in 2023 and that there still is a vacancy.
- It was noted in the last term democrats tried to put forward a police commission resolution for the agenda the republicans had control of the council; the resolution was not accepted.
- It was explained that the appointees would have probably continued to serve. The first selectman thought it was time to give other people the opportunity to serve.
